Shuster Introduces Bill to Encourage Responsible Home Ownership

Washington, D.C. – Congressman Bill Shuster has introduced legislation, H.R. 1317, to give homeowners who have paid and continue to pay their mortgages on time a $5,000 tax credit. Shuster released the following statement on his legislation:

“It seems to me that Congress is spending all of its time and energy rewarding those who acted irresponsibly. We must not ignore the vast number of Americans who have played by the rules and lived within their means. Responsible homeowners are being left out of the equation. That must change.

For just that very reason, last night I introduced legislation to give responsible homeowners who have paid and continue to pay their mortgages on time a $5000 tax credit.

This isn’t another bailout or taxpayer backed debt obligation. It’s a way for hard working American families to keep more of the money they earn so they can keep acting responsibly and help our economy grow.

Just because responsible homeowners are paying their mortgages on time does not mean they don’t need help. The Administration claims their plan will help 1 in 9 homeowners. My common sense plan helps the other 8 out of 9 homeowners the Administration and Democrats ignore.”
